THE FOREIGN-BORN POPULATION OF RHODE ISLAND.

The statistics of nativity of each recurring census exhibit with greater accentuation the changes that are taking place in the racial elements of the State's population. Nor do these figures of themselves show the full extent of the changes, as a large percentage of the native born are the children or the grandchildren of European immigrants who have landed in this country during the past sixty years.

The immigration period may be said to have begun between 1840 and 1850. None of our national censuses previous to the later date included statistics of the foreign born. Beginning with 1850, the relative proportions of the natives of Rhode Island, the United States, and foreign countries in the State, for the several census periods, are shown in table I.

TABLE I.—COMPARATIVE SUMMARY BY CENSUS PERIODS OF NUMBER BORN IN RHODE ISLAND, IN THE UNITED STATES, AND IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES, SHOWING THE RELATIVE PROPORTIONS IN PER CENT.

Our immigrants from the first have been largely of the productive age. They come here to engage in gainful occupations, and the proportion of children born to them here is naturally larger than among the native element of the population, which includes a much larger proportion of aged persons. Notwithstanding this fact, notwithstanding the large proportion of natives of foreign parentage in the native population, the percentage of foreign-born residents has increased, since 1850, from 15.76 to 31.90 per cent. During the same period the foreign population of Providence has increased from 20.91 per cent. in 1850 to 33.09 per cent. in 1905.

Table II gives the number of foreign born in the State, and in each city and town of the State, for the several census periods since 1865, by country of birth.

The preceding sixteen tables of the State census of 1905 may be found in the 1906 report of the Bureau of Industrial Statistics.

While the term “place of birth” is designed to indicate the race of individuals, it only approximately accomplished this result. It is especially misleading in countries like the United States and the Dominion of Canada, as the population of this continent above the Rio Grande is composed of many diverse races. Previous to 1890, the figures for Canada included all born in British North America. The national census of 1890, however, divided the natives of the Dominion of Canada into two classes—French and English Canadians, the latter including all not French. For the purposes of comparison our Rhode Island censuses since 1890 have followed the same classification. The designation, however, is misleading, as the enumeration by racial descent in the Dominion in 1881 showed that those of English descent constituted less than one third (29.13 per cent.) of the 3,025,881 non-French inhabitants. In the foregoing table, therefore, the inhabitants of the Dominion and New Foundland are designated as Canada-French and Canada-English.

In 1865 and 1875 the Welsh were included with the Scotch. The term "Turkey" sometimes means Turkey in Europe only, and at other enumerations embraces Turkey in Asia, also, including Armenia.

Finland should be understood as being included with Russia previous to 1900.

An examination of the national census reports shows that the character of the immigration into Rhode Island has undergone great changes since 1850. According to the census of 1850, more than two-thirds of the foreign-born inhabitants of Rhode Island and more than three-fourths of those of Providence were natives of Ireland, and more than half of the remaining foreigners in both State and city were born in England. In the State, 22,458 of the 23,111 people of foreign birth were born in the islands of Great Britain and in British North America, leaving only 641 other foreigners. All but 673 of the 9,679 foreigners in Providence were born in Great Britain. In 1855 nearly twelve-thirteenths of the city's foreign born were born in the United Kingdom, and in 1860 and 1865 the proportions were about the same. In the State as a whole the British at these two enumerations far outnumbered those of other foreign races.

The first statistics of the foreign born in Rhode Island municipalities other than Providence were given in the State census of 1865. According to the figures of the latter, the Irish, English, and Scotch constituted 1,442 of the 1,495 natives of foreign countries in Pawtucket; 2,455 of the 2,718 in Newport; 1,286 of the 1,607 in Warwick; 2,156 of the 2,359 in Cranston; 214 of the 244 in East Providence, 2,219 of the 2,767 in Cumberland; 555 of the 595 in Westerly; and a large majority of the alien born in the remaining municipalities. In fact, the Irish constituted more than one-half of the foreign born in all of the Rhode Island towns and cities but North Kingstown, Tiverton, Hopkinton, Barrington, Richmond, New Shoreham, and Charlestown. In North Kingstown, Tiverton, and Richmond the Irish were the leading foreign nationality, although they numbered less than one-half of the total foreign born. In Hopkinton and New Shoreham the natives of England predominated; in Barrington those born in British America outnumbered all others of the foreign born; while in Charlestown the natives of Germany were in the lead. The only persons of foreign birth in the State of any considerable numbers other than the natives of the British Isles, were those of British, American and German birth. Nearly half of the British Americans in the State—1,606 of the 3,384—lived in Providence, and were undoubtedly mostly non-French. In the mill towns of Warwick, Cranston, Cumberland, Burrillville, Coventry, North Kingstown, Hopkinton, Smithfield, Barrington, Glocester, and Richmond, where the natives of British America were already in evidence, they were probably mainly Canadian French.

The national census of 1870 revealed an increase of the alien born in the State from 39,703 to 55,396 in five years. The Irish, although still outnumbering all others of foreign birth, had lost relatively. They had advanced from 27,030 in 1865 to 31,534 in 1870; while the other immigrants had increased, during the same time, from 12,673 to 23,862. Of the latter total the natives of British America had advanced from 3,384 to 10,218, and the English from 6,478 to 9,285. The Scotch, Germans, and Portuguese had also added considerably to their numbers. In Providence the Irish had increased, during this five-year period, from 10,130 to 12,085, and the other foreigners from 3,272 to 5,092. The natives of England had gained more than 50 per cent., and those of British America about 75 per cent.

In 1875 the natives of Ireland in Rhode Island numbered 37,286, a gain of 5,752 since 1870; while the remaining foreign born had increased 10,482, now numbering 34,344. The natives of British America numbered 13,687, those of England 12,739, the Scotch 3,180, and the Germans 2,013. The Swedes and Portuguese were now increasing quite rapidly, the former being most in evidence in Warwick, Providence, East Providence, and East Greenwich, and the latter in Providence, Bristol, Cranston, and Little Compton. The parentage statistics of the State census of 1875 gave the respective numbers of those of French Canadian and other Canadian parentage at, respectively, 13,698 and 1,979. In all the mill towns the French Canadians largely outnumbered the others, but in Providence there were only 449 French Canadians. In Newport also the latter were more numerous than those whose parents were Canadian French. In Woonsocket the natives of British America numbered 3,376 to 2,218 natives of Ireland; in Warwick there were 1,509 British Americans and 1,242 Irish; in Lincoln, which then included Central Falls, 2,152 British Americans and 2,065 Irish. The former outnumbered the latter in Coventry, Smithfield, North Smithfield, Glocester, and West Greenwich, while they nearly equalled the latter in Warren. The English were the leading foreign nationality in North Providence, Tiverton, Hopkinton, Richmond, New Shoreham, and Exeter.

The industrial depression during the seventies (1873-79), which caused the closing of many manufacturing concerns in Rhode Island, temporarily checked the tide of European immigration, and, in the case of some of the nationalities, set the ebb the other way. The national census of 1880, showed that there were less natives of Ireland, England, Scotland, Germany, Sweden, Portugal, and France in Rhode Island that year than in 1875, while the natives of British America had added nearly 5,000 to their numbers, their aggregate now being 18,306. The natives of Ireland had fallen to 35,281, and they were no longer in the majority, the other foreign races numbering 38,712 of the 73,993 persons of foreign birth in the State. In Providence the foreign-born population had fallen from 29,237 to 28,075, the natives of Ireland decreasing from 18,458 to 16,939. The natives of England and of British America, however, gained slightly in numbers during the five-year period.

The figures of the State census of 1885 showed an increase of the foreign born in the State from 73,993 in 1880 to 85,561 in 1885.

The natives of Ireland numbered 38,895 to 46,666 of other foreigners. The natives of the Dominion of Canada, however, had contributed but little to the increase of the immigrant population, as they numbered but 18,584, an increase in the State, for the half-decade, of only 278. The English born were 16,784 in number, a gain of 4,284. The Scotch, Germans, Swedes, Portuguese, and Italians had all gained, and a few Russians (Jews), Poles, and Austrians were already beginning to appear. In Providence the Irish still outnumbered all other persons of foreign birth, but by a smaller relative majority than ever before. The English Canadians, Germans, Scotch, Swedes, and Italians had all increased at a faster rate. The same might be said of the other municipalities of the State. The natives of Canadian birth were now more numerous than the Irish in Warren, Barrington, and Foster. The Scotch were the leading foreign race in Charlestown, and the Portuguese were fast increasing in Portsmouth and Middletown.

The figures of the national census of 1890 revealed the change that was beginning to take place in the character of our foreign immigrants. The Italians and Russian Jews were coming over in increasing numbers. The persons of foreign birth in Rhode Island numbered 106,305, an increase, since 1885, of 20,744.

Beginning with 1890 the natives of British America were divided into two classes in the census tables,—those of French extraction constituting one class and all other races the other class. The gains given in the French-Canadian column for Rhode Island and Pawtucket in the national census showed the increase of the French Canadians in 1895 over the totals for all British Americans in 1885. In Providence the other Canadians outnumbered those of French extraction. Providence contained but few of the latter, compared with the number of them in the factory cities and towns, but a majority of the non-French Canadians in the State dwelt in Providence.

The natives of Ireland in Providence were in 1890, for the first time, less in number than the combined totals of the other foreign races.

The number of persons of foreign birth in the State, according to the census of 1895, was 122,775, of whom the Irish (38,226) were less than one-third. The natives of Ireland were fewer in number than in 1890. Those of England—22,820—had increased nearly 10 per cent. The Canadian French were 26,627 in number, and had gained about 19 per cent. The non-French Canadians had doubled in number, and were now the fourth foreign group in number. The natives of Italy were next in rank, increasing in five years from 2,468 to 5,717. The Swedes had increased 50 per cent., the Portuguese 63 per cent., the natives of Russia (nearly all Hebrews) from 682 to 1,696, those of Poland from 182 to 586, those of Austria from 177 to 513, and those of Turkey (Armenians and Syrians) from 63 to 314. The natives of Ireland were less in number than in 1890 in Providence, had gained slightly in Pawtucket, were less in number than in 1885 in Woonsocket, Warwick, Central Falls, Lincoln, East Providence, Westerly, Burrillville, Coventry, Warren, Johnston, North Kingstown, Tiverton, East Greenwich, Scituate, North Smithfield, Portsmouth, Smithfield, Middletown, Glocester, Foster, Exeter, and West Greenwich, and had increased in number in the remaining towns and in Newport. The Canadian French had increased in number in nearly all the towns and cities. Their gain in Warwick is especially noticeable, they numbering 4,001 to 1,444 Canadians of all races in 1885. The natives of England, Scotland, Germany, and Sweden showed gains in nearly all the towns and cities, the Swedes more than doubling their numbers in Warwick, Cranston, and East Greenwich. They were now the first foreign race in East Greenwich and the third in Cranston. The natives of Italy were in the lead in North Kingstown and Barrington, those of Portugal were ahead in Portsmouth, Middletown, and Little Compton; the English born had gained the lead in Charlestown; and the non-French natives of Canada were the leading foreign group in Foster. The increase of the foreign born in the State in the half-decade of 1895-1900 was only 11,744,—less than 10 per cent.

The Irish were less in number in 1900 in the State and in all three of the cities shown than in 1895, and the natives of Scotland had fewer than in 1895 in Rhode Island and in Woonsocket. The natives of Portugal, Russia, Poland, and Turkey made large gains in the State. A majority of the Russians and Turks (the latter mostly Armenians and Syrians) were in Providence, while a large majority of Poles were outside of Providence. The Italians had now become the fourth foreign race in the State. The Italians had increased greatly in Providence, the Poles in Providence, Pawtucket, and Woonsocket; the natives of Austria in Providence and Woonsocket; and the natives of Turkey in Providence and Pawtucket.

The number of the natives of foreign countries in the State in 1905 had increased to 153,154. Of this total 62,940 were natives of the United Kingdom (England, Scotland, Wales, and Ireland),; 39,500 were born in Canada, and 50,714 in the rest of the world.

The changes that have taken place since 1850 in the race elements of the people of foreign birth in Rhode Island and in the city of Providence are shown in the following table:

It will be seen that great changes have taken place in the elements of our foreign born in the last half-century, especially within the last ten years. The natives of Ireland are less numerous now in the State than they were in 1875, and fewer in number in Providence than in 1885. The other British (English, Scotch, and Welsh) have gradually increased until they nearly equal the Irish in numbers in the State, and are now about two to three in Providence. Those of Canadian birth have increased quite rapidly in the State until within the last five years. Nearly three-fourths of them in the State at large are of French descent, but in Providence the latter are slightly outnumbered by the other Canadians, of whom those of Scotch descent are probably in the plurality, as many of them are females in domestic service from Nova Scotia, whose ancestors came from Scotland. The natives of Italy in the State have more than doubled in number since 1900; those of Portugal and Russia have nearly doubled during the same time.

The natives of Portugal in Rhode Island may be divided into two classes—the whites and those of mixed white and negro blood. The latter are mostly from the Cape Verde Islands, which lie off the west coast of Africa. The dark immigrants from these islands, most of whom have straight hair, are supposed to be descended from the soldiers of the early Spanish garrisons, who married native colored women. These dark Portuguese have been variously enumerated in national and State censuses as Portuguese, Cape Verde Islanders, colored, and "Africans." In 1900 Rhode Island was credited in the national census with 123 Africans. The present census only finds 40. There were undoubtedly more natives of Africa, including the Cape Verdes, in Rhode Island in 1905 than in 1900. The seeming loss is doubtless owing to the differing points of view of enumerators.

The statistics of "place of birth" are not always enlightening. The French Canadians, Austrians, Russians, Turks, Asiatics, and Africans are of many races. Nearly all of the 4505 persons born in Russia in 1905 enumerated in the present census are Jews, although during the last two or three years a few genuine Russian Muscovites appear to have settled in the State. The natives of Turkey found by the enumerators are nearly all Syrians and Armenians. Less than 100 genuine Turks were found, and they were all in Providence. While a majority of the Armenians (1128) were enumerated as Armenians, many were probably given as natives of Turkey. An Armenian, unless he has adopted an English name, after the fashion of many other foreigners, can almost invariably be recognized by the terminating syllable (ian) of his surname. The present census finds four females in Providence who are natives of China. Three of them are whites born in the Flowery Kingdom, while only one—the wife of a Chinese merchant—is a genuine Chinese female.
